

Title: "The Joyful River Run"

As the sun begins to rise, a cute girl awakes, With a smile on her face, she's ready to partake. She ties up her sneakers, laces tight and secure, For a day full of adventure, she can hardly endure. She heads to the river, where the water gleams, Its gentle flow invites her to fulfill her dreams. With each step she takes, her heart starts to sing. She feels the excitement, such joy it will

The girl starts to run, her laughter fills the air, Her ponytail bouncing with each bound and flair. The river rushes by, its melody so sweet, Carrying her happiness, her joy, and her beat. She leaps over rocks, her jumps higher and higher, With each leap, her spirit lifts even higher. The birds chirp along, providing a cheerful tune. As the girl dances and skips under the bright